MOAR SNOW!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

... Winter Storm Warning remains in effect from noon Tuesday to 7 PM EST Wednesday...

A Winter Storm Warning remains in effect from noon Tuesday to 7 PM EST Wednesday.

- * Precipitation type... snow.
- * Accumulations... 10 to 20 inches.
- * Timing... mid-afternoon Tuesday through Wednesday.
- * Temperatures... temperatures near freezing at the onset Tuesday afternoon. Temperatures will drop into the upper 20s Tuesday night and Wednesday.
- * Winds... light southeasterly winds Tuesday becoming northwesterly 15 to 25 mph Wednesday.

Precautionary/preparedness actions...

A Winter Storm Warning means significant amounts of snow are expected or occurring. The combination of snow and strong winds will make travel very hazardous.

Thank you

COLLAPSE

I know they have all kinds of contingency plans for various doomsday scenarios hitting our nation's capitol, but I do worry that "White House buried in snow" might not be one of them.

Stay safe and warm!

They have tunnels under it, I hear.

And a helipad on the roof, even. I wonder what my landlady would think about a helipad on the roof. Just a little one.

Does she know about the bouldering problem between the kitchen and the bedroom yet?

I totally earn that first cup of coffee in the morning.

It's good to know you've integrated the fact that you're NEVER BRINGING A WOMAN HOME AGAIN.

Aww. But if I am clinging to the ceiling, there's room for two in the place!

No, no, he just needs to bring one home from the climbing gym. Then they can take turns clinging to the ceiling.

Well, duh, that makes sense.

(this would be why I'm not in charge of any doomsday scenario contingency plans. except for the ones that involve zombies, because the people in charge never take those scenarios seriously enough)

I thought about walking to work pushing a snowblower. Unfortunately, there's not a one to be had anywhere in a fifty-mile radius.

Besides, given the price of gas, I could hire a limo.

And the extension cords for an electric one would be prohibitively long.

The Northwest is having Early Spring... Maybe y'all can come visit here. :D

Yeah! We have crash space and temperatures above 40. :)

That's a lot of snow. And if the pictures I'm seeing are to be believed, it's the wet stuff. 20 inches, plus what's already there... one does begin to wonder about the snow-load ratings of certain Governmental buildings.

They'll probably start shoveling it off the roofs and dumping it on the heads of the pedestrians below. g

Nothing like eight pounds of snow falling on your head to really start your day right. The adrenalin buzz of a near miss comes pretty close, though. I've done a bit of roof-raking in my time, but not on the scale of THAT.

I just woke up because my feet are cold. This is wrong. I'm cranky.

That is all.

Your feet are ALWAYS cold, Mr. Wool-socks-in-June.
